TRAFFIC IN WHITE GIRLS CHARGED

Demand Chiefly From Chicago Negroes and Chinese.

FEDERALS PROBING AT WORK

Mother of the Cameron Girl, Alleged to Have Been Abducted by Jack Johnson, the Pugilist, Appears Before the Grand Jury—Vice Crusader of West Hammond Also on Hand to Give Testimony.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—The investigation started by the government when Mrs. Cameron-Falconet of Minneapolis complained that Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, was keeping her daughter Lucile, 19, from her, within into a thorough federal grand jury inquiry into an alleged traffic in white girls who have been brought here for negroes wealthy enough to pay a large premium.

Detectives employed by the government reported that they had unearthed evidence which would show the existence of a systematic traffic in white girls, the demand coming chiefly from negro men and Chinamen.

Mrs. Cameron-Falconet appeared before the grand jury, and it was understood her testimony covered the charge of abduction she made against Johnson.

Attorney Charles E. Erbstein, representing Mrs. Cameron-Falconet, prepared for a possible release of the girl on habeas corpus by having issued a writ ordering an inquiry into the girl's sanity.

Miss Cameron, the daughter, is said to have given the grand jury considerable information concerning the white slave traffic.

Six negroes, known about Johnson's wife as "sluggers," were looting about the corridors of the federal building. Deputy United States marshals and policemen searched them for weapons. None was found to be armed, however, and they were released.

Virginia Brooks, West Hammond, Ill., vice crusader, was in the witness room, and it was understood that she was to testify that Johnson took Lucile Cameron on automobile rides about West Hammond.

The grand jury investigation will include an inquiry into the affairs of the Narcissus club, an organization of negro men whose wives are white women.

Jack Johnson Denounced.
Washington, Oct. 23.—At a meeting Johnson, the negro pugilist, a dis- of several hundred negroes here resolutions were adopted declaring Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, a disgrace to his race and an outcast "now and forever more."

Militant Suffragette Nabbed As Crowd Hoots and Cheers

WHEN the English suffragettes get busy with their window smashing and their other violent tactics the camera man grins and goes to work. It's his harvest, and a bumper one it has recently been. Click goes the shutter at the struggling militant lady, quicker than she can shy a brick, and there you have her, preserved for all our youthful voters and voteresses (or should it be voterices?) to shout in gleeful triumph over. Bless your heart, the good English matron in the picture is having the time of her life! Does she really mind the jeers or the cheers of the crowd? Not a bit of it. This is a scene that took place recently in Belfast and one Premier Asquith no doubt chuckles over in private, even as you and I.

TURKS TAKE THE OFFENSIVE

Bulgars Find Themselves in a Hostile Country Near Adrianople With Their Lines of Communication Seriously Endangered — Servians Having Their Fill of Fighting on the March to Uskub.

London, Oct. 23.—The Turks have at last taken the offensive. They have flung out from Adrianople, in the shadows of which the Bulgars have advanced, and pushed back the invaders.

The Ottoman troops are attacking the Bulgars all along the line from Adrianople to Kirk-Killesseh, where the fighting is hottest. Not only has the Bulgarian advance been very suddenly checked, but the Bulgars find

Mabel Hite Succumbs

Actress Wife of Michael Donlin, Ball Player, Passes Away.

New York, Oct. 23.—Mabel Hite, as the actress wife of Michael Donlin, the baseball player, was known to theatergoers, is dead at her apartments following a long illness, which the physicians and surgeons who attended Mrs. Donlin before she took up Christian Science early in the summer diagnosed as cancer. Miss Hite's stage work during the past three years has been interrupted frequently by illness.

Mr. Donlin, her husband, who after his summer on the Pittsburgh ball team returned to the stage, was about to appear before an audience at Youngstown, O., when word came to him that his wife was dying. He left immediately for the east. Mrs. Donlin was born in Ashland, Ky., in 1885.

London, Oct. 23.—Robert Barr, the novelist, died suddenly at his home at Woldingham, Surrey.

MADERO FORCES NOT YET ROUTED

Detachment of Troops Leave Capital to Engage Diaz.

Mexico City, Oct. 23.—Eight trains bringing the troops of General Blanquet from the north arrived here and left for Vera Cruz. Four hundred Coahuila volunteers, who composed part of the force, remained here. General Blanquet has 1,400 men and 63 officers, with two cannon and two rapid-fire guns. In an interview General Blanquet was good-natured and optimistic, but reticent as to his plans.

Government officials announced that the federals had entered Vera Cruz after a bloody combat, but railroad men say the government troops have not left Tejeria and Santa Fe, the mobilization points, and absolutely authentic private messages say the situation at Vera Cruz is unchanged.

Truce at Vera Cruz.

Cordova, Mexico, Oct. 23.—Federal troops have gained a strong foothold in Vera Cruz. Parleys between the opposing generals have resulted in a truce, though its terms are kept secret. The engagement in the city last night seems to have been of a desultory character, though the government troops hold the municipal palace. Stringent measures to prevent rioting have been taken. Couriers straggling in here on work trains brought the advices from the front.

Patient Must Have One Week Of Quiet

If Roosevelt Gets It He Will Be Able to Make Speech.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 23.—After a consultation with members of the family of Theodore Roosevelt, the physicians made the following announcement:

"The colonel must have one week of absolute rest. If he gets that, he is likely to be able to make his speeches. He will make the Madison Square Garden speech if he gets the required rest."

The colonel has been strictly enjoined to see no visitors. This evening Doctors Lambert and Morrell are expected to return. He is being attended only by members of the family and his devoted negro body servant, "Jim," who is tireless in his watch.

Declares Charges Malicious

Prosecutor Maher Resents Reflections Upon Himself.

Greenville, O., Oct. 23.—Work of State Examiner Bliss, performed at an expense of $5,000 to Darke county, was without benefit to the county, according to Prosecuting Attorney John F. Maher. The report referred to graft totaling $325,000 and involving county officials, contractors and others. Mr. Maher declares that not a whit of information of value which he and Detective Bradbury of Cleveland had not turned up was disclosed. He is aroused by charges reflecting upon himself, which have come out as a result of the Bliss examination. He calls these charges "malicious."

Thirteen Survivors of Wrecked Vessel Rescued After Six Days.

Corpus Christi, Tex., Oct. 23.—Thirteen of the 19 members of the crew of the steamer Nicaragua, which went down to her doom in the recent hurricane which swept over the gulf region, were rescued by members of the lifesaving crew at Port Aransas, Tex. The survivors had drifted six days in two small boats, battling with the hurricane, after six of their comrades had gone to their death with the vessel. Captain Echevarra, the commander, was among the survivors. The vessel was due in Port Arthur last Monday, and fears that it had been lost were only confirmed by the rescue of the survivors.

Utilities Commission Wants Gas Pressure In Columbus Reduced.

Columbus, O., Oct. 23.—Acting on its own initiative on the theory that many homes in the city of Columbus are in danger of annihilation from gas explosions, due to heavy pressure improperly protected, the state public utilities commission gave a hearing to agents of the Columbus Gas and Fuel company on the matter of reducing the pressure in certain parts of the city. Gas officials are said to be opposing a general order requiring central control stations on the grounds that there is no danger, and that the expenditure which it would necessitate would be a waste of money.

CHAUFFEUR DESERTS DEFENSE

Decided at Last Moment to Take the Witness Stand, Where He Corroborated Testimony of Jack Rose and Others as to Movements of the Alleged Murderers and Their Accusation That Becker Prompted Deed.

New York, Oct. 23.—The Becker trial jury will retire before noon Thursday to decide whether or not he is guilty of the murder of Herman Rosenthal. Today is being devoted entirely to the summing up for the defense by Mr. McIntyre, and for the state by Mr. Moss. Each have four hours—Mr. McIntyre from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m., Mr. Moss from 3:30 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. Tomorrow at 10 o'clock Justice Goff will deliver his charge to the jury.

These arrangements were ordered by the court after the defense had rested its case without calling Becker as a witness and after brief testimony in rebuttal. A remarkable record was made in this trial of presenting in only 19 working days all of the testimony for and against the defendant.

The case of the defense sagged to an end when their last witnesses had made a not too satisfactory impression for their cause. And then the district attorney hurled against them the testimony of Willie Shapiro, the chauffeur of the murder car, who broke away from the gunmen and corroborated on the witness stand everything that Jack Rose had testified to about the rounding up of the murderers and about their departure from Webber's gambling house to kill Rosenthal.

Shapiro's decision at the last moment to let the gunmen, Jack Sullivan and Lieutenant Becker shift for themselves was a blow to the defense. They had tried to get Shapiro to testify for Becker. But Aaron Levy, his lawyer, advised him that if he hoped to save himself he had better volunteer to tell the truth. So Shapiro made an affidavit concerning his connection with the murder. It was not only a detailed corroboration of the testimony of Rose and of the other informers as to the movements of the murderers, but of their accusation that Becker was the director of the murder.

Shapiro was allowed to testify that he had not seen Vallon or Schepps after he left them with Rose and Dago Frank at Webber's poker room. Herein lay keenest disappointment to the defense. With one word Shapiro destroyed the impression that Becker's lawyers had sought to create, that Vallon and Schepps were the actual murderers.

Lieutenant Becker spoke somewhat bitterly over the refusal of his lawyers to let him take the stand and do the best he could for himself. "I wanted to testify," he said, "but whenever the matter came up for discussion there was always a difference of opinion. They couldn't agree."

THE VIEWPOINT.

The other man's viewpoint! It's the hardest thing in the world to swallow. We are so convinced that he isn't right—that he couldn't be right and that he must have a weak mind or a stubborn disposition, or he would see our way.

So our sub-conscious ego rises indignantly to combat the other man's viewpoint and can only be conquered by a sense of fairness that demands his right to defer and hold an opinion all his own.

Threadbare and worn is the well known fact that an honest difference of opinion has been the cause of many a quarrel and ruptured many a friendship.

Nothing so tests a man's broadmindedness as his ability to generously concede the other man's right to an entirely different point of view.

Just now, in the throes of a political turmoil that has no precedent, and with men taking sides with bitterness unheard of since the days of Zachary Taylor and "Old Hickory", it's pretty hard to even listen to the other man.

The atmosphere of a political argument is charged with feeling. There is no quarter given.

It is at such times as these that the really big man shows his caliber.

He need not be a weakling. He need not lower his colors. But he can be magnanimous enough to concede that the other man is entitled to his different opinion. He can enlarge his own viewpoint until he can see that the other man's training, his experience, his research, may have led him to counter views and that his argument is just as honest and may have within it elements of reasoning as defensible as his own.

Since the days of the Inquisition the persecution of the world has risen from the contracted viewpoint that believed itself infallible.

Not all the progress and liberality of the 20th century has been able to eradicate that ego which is responsible for many crimes.

For the next few weeks the all absorbing subject will be the presidential election.

Not all men will stop to consider wisely and well, but all men will voice an opinion and most men will, to put it vulgarly, "get mad" if their opponent bears down too hard on their argument and the favorite they are playing.

Don't "get mad."

It's a strain on the nervous system, and it really isn't good for the liver! If you are still firmly of the same opinion, as you probably will be, don't call the other fellow a "knot head," an imbecile or something worse, but grant to him the same right that you claim—the right to think as he pleases.

Children Must Exercise Body and Mind

By Wells Andrews, M. D., Chicago

unsightly exposure of the arms and legs, which is often attended by the most serious injury to the child. Merino undershirts should be worn by the girls in winter weather, woolen stockings and heavy shoes.

Avoid guarding the neck and throat of boys and girls. By reason of the proximity of the neck to the seat of circulation this very quickly has the temperature unduly increased by an excess of covering, to relieve which the articles surrounding the neck are often suddenly removed. Perspiration is then checked and throat diseases of course follow.

As the child advances in age his desire for employment and amusement will increase. Every proper opportunity, therefore, should be given for the due exercise of both body and mind, but neither should be too fatigued. Care should be taken at this time to provide such employment or amusement as shall exercise the arms as well as the legs, playing ball, pitching horseshoes and the like. After selecting proper games and exercises for children constant care should be taken that none are indulged in to excess.

Every violent exertion is attended by a strain upon some one part or other of the body.

In jumping from great heights, leaping over elevations, lifting great weights, in fact, in every exertion of this kind the boy risks producing a disability for life. It is by these hazardous experiments that ruptures are so frequently produced. On this account the exercises of a well-regulated gymnasium become so valuable, as the performances are graduated, beginning with the most easy and progressively arriving at the more difficult.

Poetry for Today

THE RAGGEDY MAN.

Oh, the raggedy man! He works for pa,
An' he's the goodest man ever you saw.
He comes to our house every day
hay,
An' waters the horses an' feeds 'em
An' he opens the shed, an' we all laugh
When he drives out our little old wabbly calf.
An' one of our hired girl says he can—
He milks the cow fer 'Lizabeth Ann.
Ain't he a awful good raggedy
man?
Raggedy! Raggedy! Raggedy
man!

Why, the raggedy man—he's ist so good
He splits the kindlin' an' chops the wood.
An' nen he spades in our garden, too,
And does most things 'at boys can't do.
He clumbed clean up in our big tree
An' shooked a apple down fer me—
An' 'nother'n too, fer the raggedy
man.
Ain't he a awful kind raggedy
man?
Raggedy! Raggedy! Raggedy
man!

An' the raggedy man, he knows most rhymes
An' tells 'em, ef I be good, sometimes.
Knows about giants an' griffins an elves
An' the Squidgleum-Squees 'at swalfers themselves!
An' wite by the pump in our pasture
lot
He showed me the hole 'at the Wunks is got,
'At lives way deep in the ground an'
can
Turn into me er 'Lizabeth Ann!
Ain't he a funny old raggedy
man?
Raggedy! Raggedy! Raggedy
man!

The raggedy man—one time when he
Was makin' a little bow-'n-orry fer men—
Says, "When your big like your pa is,
Air you go' to keep a fine store like his
'An be a rich merchant 'an wear fine clothes.
Er what air you go' to be, goodness
knows?
An' I say, "'M go' to be a raggedy
man!
I'm ist go' to be a nice raggedy
man?"
Raggedy! Raggedy! Raggedy
man!

Biggest Specimen Weighed 135 Pounds

The ninth annual Pumpkin show, held in Circleville last week, was a notable success, and attracted thousands of people from all over this part of Ohio.

The largest specimen of the luscious pie fruit was in the shape of a squash which tipped the scales at 135 pounds, and this was only one of the numerous objects of more than passing interest which attracted the attention of 15,000 people Saturday. The largest pumpkin weighed 65 lbs.

It is estimated that the visitors at the show left fully $50,000 in Circleville.

There is some talk of a pumpkin show in this city next fall.

Residence of W. C. Blue and a few of his young draft horses.

The above photo engraving was made last week for Mr. W. C. Blue, one of our most enterprising farmers and stock raisers, and was produced for the purpose of calling particular attention to a splendid herd of 32 coming 3-year-old draft colts, which Mr. Blue now has on hands. The picture was taken at the Blue home, 1 1-2 miles east of Parretts Station and 7 1-2 miles north of Washington, on the old Thos. Kirk farm. Eleven head of the 32 draft colts are shown in the photo, with Mr. Blue shown astride a saddle horse at the right.

Practically all of these horses were bred and raised by the owner and he is very proud of them. Mr. Blue has decided to hold a mammoth public sale on Monday, November 11, at which time he will dispose of 43 head of horses, including work mares, drivers, geldings, stallions—and the entire herd of 32 head of draft colts, making one of the largest individual sales of horses ever held in Fayette county.

In addition to the horses, Mr. Blue will sell on the block 30 head of cattle, 111 head of hogs, 18 head of sheep, two complete threshing rigs and engines and an immense lot of farming implements, wagons, buggies, etc., making a sale that will run up into the thousands of dollars and attract a great deal of attention from buyers far and near.

Gunboat Goes Aground

Nashville, With Provisions and Ammunition, Is Stuck In the Mud.
Norfolk, Va., Oct. 23.—Loaded with provisions and ammunition for the cruisers Des Moines and Tacoma, now in Mexican waters, the gunboat Nashville ran aground near Bush Bluff lightship and is stuck fast in the mud. The Nashville had orders to proceed to Guantanamo to supply several vessels with ammunition. She was under orders and was making good speed when she passed Lambert's Point en route to sea. It is claimed that the Nashville, in trying to avoid the numerous vessels waiting for coal off Lambert's Point, went out of the channel and was brought to a sudden stop by running on the mud.

HUNDREDS OF VISITORS WITNESS SUPERB WORK OF IMPERIAL DEGREE STAFF

Grand Officers and Many Other
Notable Persons Among Those Who Praise Local Staff.

NEW PARAPHERNALIA IS USED FOR FIRST TIME

Over 700, Representing More
Than 35 Lodges, Watch Staff
Confer First Degree on Class
of 17 Candidates—Innovation
Introduced in Using Lodge Colors.

Tuesday night was one which will
never be forgotten by Temple lodge,
I. O. O. F., and her hundreds of visit-
ers who flocked here from 35 different lodges throughout the state to witness the magnificent work of the greatest Odd Fellow degree staff in
the state of Ohio, and as great, if not
greater than any other in America
and the world.

Over 700 Odd Fellows filled the third floor of Memorial Hall where
the work was conferred upon a class
of 17 candidates from nearly as many different lodges, and if the weather
had not been so inclement the crowd
would have reached near the 1000
mark.

Imperial Degree Staff, composed of 75 members, each one of whom has
been thoroughly drilled in his particular part in the big staff until the entire work covering one and three-quarters hours is carried out with-
out a single "hitch", was at its best,
and the elegant wardrobes and splendid new equipment in general added
to the impressiveness and made more
realistic each man's part.

For the first time in the history of
the Odd Fellow lodge the lodge colors were used effectively in the work,

and the various squads of guards
were dressed in white, pink, blue and scarlet silk plush uniforms. This is only one of a great many original ideas that have been warped into the work by Imperial Degree Staff and
have met with universal approval in
the Odd Fellow lodge throughout the state. The garb of the officers was the richest of satin, and all other members of the team were also eleg-
antly garbed.

The piano music by Frank Horst-
man and the drums in the hands of
Dr. Larum, met with hearty approv-
al. Likewise the splendid quartette
work of Messrs. Howell, Sanderson,
Kearney and Burch.

Even the festive goat imbibed so
much enthusiasm that he made a dash
for one of his keepers and created
quite a little amusement.

Captain H. D. Chaffin, although
suffering intensely from a very severe
attack of rheumatism, compelled himself to forget his sufferings long enough to carry out his part in perfect manner.

After the work was conferred a number of speeches were made by the various grand officers and other notables, who one and all praised Imperial Degree Staff for the inimitable manner in which the first degree had
been conferred.

Perhaps no higher tribute was paid
than that of one of the grand officers
who said that he had been in every state in the Union and had witnessed
work in every state, but the work of Imperial Degree Staff by far surpassed anything he had ever witnessed.

After the speeches the large crowd
of Odd Fellows went to the Odd Fellows' Temple where the ladies of the

Xenia Grabs The Zero End Again

The Xenia football team met the Hamilton boys Saturday and once again met defeat in a fast game.
Hamilton winning the game 34 to 0.
As usual Xenia's forward pass was much in evidence, and more than once it looked as if Hamilton would not be able to break it up, but they did and poor Xenia was goose egged
in fine shape again.

AN EARLY BIBLICAL ROMANCE

First Popular Story in Literature World is Discovered in Elephantine.

Assouan.—What is declared to be the earliest popular romance in the literature of the world has come to light in Elephantine, an ancient island in the Nile, near Assouan. This tale, bearing the title "Aclacarius," is found in an ancient African manuscript. It was written about 500 B. C.
The tale is referred to by the author of the Book of Tobias, and later it appears in a modified form in the Arabian Nights. The manuscript has been restored by a German translator, who gives an entertaining synopsis of its contents:

"The wise Achikar is the vizier of the king Sinacherib and his son Asurachiddin. He is extraordinarily rich, but has no son. When he complains of this to the gods he receives the advice to adopt his nephew Nadan in place of a son. He follows the advice and instructs Nadan in all wisdom—the romance gives his precepts in detail—and then commends his foster-son to the king as his own successor. Asurachiddin agrees, but Na-dan misuses his position, and when confesses that Achikar still lives and the king may avail himself of his counsel. The old vizier promptly re-sues the king, to the great annoyance of the Pharaoh.

"The conclusion of the tale is as naïve as it is amusing in its oriental viewpoint. Nadan is deposed and brought in chains before Achikar, who has him incarcerated and fed on bread and water. Meanwhile he daily re-gales him with intellectual sustenance
in the shape of stories and fables which are packed with both worldly wisdom and spiritual edification. This is especially interesting because it recalls the plan of the ancient Sanskrit collection of instructive tales known as the Hitopadesa.

"The wretched Nadan takes the treatment very ill. Overcome with anger and chagrin—and possibly ennui—he "swells up and bursts!"
"This history was widely known in the Orient and was plausibly commented on by the writer of the Book of Tobias as follows:

"Behold, my son, how Nadab (Na-dan) dealt with Achikar, that he brought him alive into a dungeon under the earth. But God recompensed him for his sorrow. He came again unto the light and Nadab went hence into eternal darkness."

is so stunned with horror that he is unable to utter a word in his own defense, whereupon the ruler gives orders to Nabusamach to put him to death. But Nabusamach, who had once been saved from death by Ach-ikar, kills a slave in his place and hides the old man in a secret dungeon.

Phillips Wanted In Wilmington

Mont Phillips, held in the county jail under $1000 bond on a charge of shooting to kill Josie Hargraves, is said to be wanted in Wilmington, where he is alleged to have taken a shot at a man near the B. & O. S. W.
depot in that city some few months ago.

Some trouble occurred between Phillips and another colored man, it is charged, and Phillips drew his gun and fired. The shot went wild. The Wilmington authorities immediately instituted a search for the man but he made his escape, and although a watch has been kept for him he has not been located.

HUNDREDS OF VISITORS WITNESS SUPERB WORK OF IMPERIAL DEGREE STAFF

Grand Officers and Many Other
Notable Persons Among Those

NEW PARAPHERNALIA IS

Over 700, Representing More

Confer First Degree on Class
of 17 Candidates---Innovation
Introduced in Using Lodge Colors.

Tuesday night was one which will
never be forgotten by Temple lodge,
I. O. O. F., and her hundreds of visit-
ers who flocked here from 35 different lodges throughout the state to
witness the magnificent work of the
greatest Odd Fellow degree staff in
the state of Ohio, and as great, if not
greater than any other in America
and the world.

Over 700 Odd Fellows filled the
third floor of Memorial Hall where
the work was conferred upon a class
of 17 candidates from nearly as many
different lodges, and if the weather
had not been so inclement the crowd
would have reached near the 1000
mark.

Imperial Degree Staff, composed of 75 members, each one of whom has
been thoroughly drilled in his particular part in the big staff until the
entire work covering one and three-
quarters hours is carried out with-
out a single "hitch", was at its best,
and the elegant wardrobes and splendid new equipment in general added
to the impressiveness and made more
realistic each man's part.

For the first time in the history of
the Odd Fellow lodge the lodge colors were used effectively in the work,

and the various squads of guards
were dressed in white, pink, blue and scarlet silk plush uniforms. This is only one of a great many original
ideas that have been warped into the
work by Imperial Degree Staff and
have met with universal approval in
the Odd Fellow lodge throughout the state. The garb of the officers was the richest of satin, and all other
members of the team were also eleg-
antly garbed.

The piano music by Frank Horst-
man and the drums in the hands of
Dr. Larum, met with hearty approv-
al. Likewise the splendid quartette
work of Messrs. Howell, Sanderson,
Kearney and Burch.

Even the festive goat imbibed so
much enthusiasm that he made a dash
for one of his keepers and created
quite a little amusement.

Captain H. D. Chaffin, although
suffering intensely from a very severe
attack of rheumatism, compelled himself to forget his sufferings long
enough to carry out his part in perfect manner.

After the work was conferred a
number of speeches were made by the
various grand officers and other notables, who one and all praised Imperial Degree Staff for the inimitable manner in which the first degree had
been conferred.

Perhaps no higher tribute was paid
than that of one of the grand officers
who said that he had been in every
state in the Union and had witnessed
work in every state, but the work of Imperial Degree Staff by far surpass-
ed anything he had ever witnessed.

After the speeches the large crowd
of Odd Fellows went to the Odd Fellows' Temple where the ladies of the supper. Many made the trip by train

COURT STREET

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Chaffin entertained last night with a handsome six o'clock dinner in honor of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Lyle, of Dayton.

The additional guests were Grandmaster Goodrich, of Toledo; Grand Secretary Lyman, Dr. Town, of Columbus; Dr. Clayton Lanum and Mr. Robert McLean.

In the evening Mrs. Chaffin enjoyably entertained the women of the Friday Bridge club.

At high noon on Sunday, October 20th, at the home of the bride's parents, on Elm street, Sabina, was celebrated the nuptials of Miss Opal, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Dowden, and Mr. Howard Hudson, of Blanchester. The home was beautifully decorated with ferns and cut flowers, carnations predominating. The ceremony was witnessed by only the families and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties.

Prior to the wedding Miss Evelyn Dowden sang "O Promise Me," and as the happy couple descended the stairs and entered the parlors Miss Louise Dowden rendered the Lohengrin Wedding March. The ring ceremony was used, the bride and groom standing beneath a bower of flowers and ferns. Rev. Dr. A. L. Reynolds, former pastor of the Sabina Methodist Protestant church, officiating. The wedding party then proceeded to the dining room, where a splendid five course dinner was served.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white crepe meteor, with trimmings of shadow lace and rhinestones and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Her going away suit and hat were blue. Mr. and Mrs. Hudson left on the afternoon train for a short wedding trip, and will be at home to their friends after Nov. 15th in Blanchester.—Sabina Tribune.

The bride is well known in this city, where she visits Mrs. Tom Maddux and Washington friends will be glad to join in congratulations.

Married at the home of Rev. Eliza H. Thorne, Sabina, on Thursday evening, October 17th, 1912, and by the same, Miss Mabel L. Williams and Mr. Alexander A. Campbell. The bride is one of Sabina's most winsome girls, the eldest daughter of Capt. and Mrs. W. C. Williams, and popular with a large circle of friends. The groom is one of the energetic young business men of Washington C. H. We join in congratulations and best wishes.—Sabina Tribune.

Mr. Campbell is the son of Mr. Chas. F. Campbell and was formerly owner of the Palace Cigar store, now owned by Mr. Frank Bradley. His many friends and acquaintances in this city will be glad to welcome his bride.

BAR WOMAN AS LAWYER

Atlanta Student, While Graduating From College, Is Excluded by Court Interpretation.

Atlanta, Ga.—When the curtain in the Grand Opera House at Atlanta rolled up, disclosing the graduating class of the Atlanta Law school, there was a general craning of necks and excited whispers. For here was a woman candidate for the coveted degree of Bachelor of Laws—a Porto in staid old Georgia—and the audience rose en masse to shout its approval of this invasion of the sacred rights of man.

The climax came when her name—Mrs. Georgia McIntyre Weaver—in the course of the distribution of the diploma was called. The little woman, who had sat through the evening among that dominant group of men as unconcerned as though the weight of her sex was not hanging around her neck, stepped demurely forward to receive her degree—"with all the advantages, privileges and emoluments incident thereto."

But the following morning, while the balance of the class was being admitted to the bar, Mrs. Weaver, she "of the privileged sex," sat in her room gazing at her diploma and thinking of the useless degree that entitled her to all the "advantages, privileges and emoluments thereto."

For, under an interpretation of the law, as laid down by the Georgia courts, only male citizens are eligible to the practice of law. Mrs. Weaver, therefore, just because she is a woman, and in spite of the high standing she attained in her class, must sit sulkily aside.

Merely a Matter of Tenses. Mayor Harrison of Chicago, congratulated on the orderliness of the Windy City under his regime, told a reporter an episode of old Chicago.

"In old Chicago," he said, "a woman was walking on a fashionable boulevard when she dropped her purse."

"A rough behind her picked it up and put it in his pocket."

"Excuse me, sir," said the woman, "but that purse is mine."

"Was yours, you mean," said the rough, as with a loud laugh and a wink at a passing policeman he strode off.

Shocking Accident Befalls Young Man

Eddie Archer, an employee of the Home Telephone Company, of Highland county, is suffering from horrible injuries received a day or two ago while dynamiting telephone poles a few miles from Greenfield.

The young man was blowing out the old poles, and a charge failed to explode, so a second charge was exploded with the belief that the first charge would explode with it.

After the explosion he approached the hole and was at work removing the pieces of pole when the first charge, which had failed to explode when the second was fired, exploded with great force, hurling the dirt, stone and splinters into the young man's face.

Both eyes were completely closed and it is feared that he will lose the sight of one or both eyes. His face was cut to ribbons. A companion who was working nearby ran to his assistance and helping him into a rig, drove rapidly to a physician's office where the wounds were washed and bandaged.

Archer suffered intense agony, and it required many stitches to close the awful wounds in his face.

Owing to the poisonous nature of the earth and splinters, lock-jaw or blood poisoning is feared, and the man may lose his life as a result of the wounds.

OLIVE TABLETS OIL THE BOWELS

A Physician's Substitute for Dangerous Calomel.

When you feel that your liver and bowels need help take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Substitute for Calomel. Calomel is effective, but dangerous—causing bad after-effects.

Olive Tablets are especially made to take the place of Calomel. Dr. Edwards for years has been Calomel's foe. He saw its dangers and its disadvantages in 17 years' practice, treating patients for all kinds of liver and bowel complaints. In his efforts to do without Calomel he developed his now famous little olive-oil-colored tablets. Olive Tablets are mild but effective. Safe and sure. Pleasant to take but unfailing in results.

Olive Tablets oil the bowels just enough to start Nature's own action, and they tone up the liver at the same time. They are made from a rare combination of vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

If you want to regain that feeling of joyous buoyancy and clear thought take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They work like a vacation. 10 and 25 cents per box.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

COLLEGE-BRED RAFFLES TELLS HOW HE WAS LED TO BECOME A CRIMINAL

HEREWITH is an amazing true story of crime. A college-bred man of excellent family deliberately turns burglar. In six months he plunders the homes of the rich of a quarter of a million dollars' worth of art treasures, jewels and silverware, without seeking to dispose of any of it. Apparently his theories about successful burglars are correct, but he takes to forgery and is trapped.

Jacob Foy Guthrie, whose confession in his own words follows, is twenty-six. He has lived all his life at 1613 Prairie avenue, Chicago, with his mother and sister. He was graduated from Wendell Phillips high school there and in 1909 he received his degree from Armour institute. Then he took a special course in electrical engineering and had fine positions with the Commonwealth Edison company, as assistant chemist in the city laboratory, and as instructor in electrical science at the Lane Technical school. There he made his own jimmy and skeleton keys to take up his chosen work—burglary along scientific lines.

He announced that he was retiring from active work to study. This was true; he was studying—crime. Lombroso became his chief mentor.

By JACOB FOY GUTHRIE, B. S.

BECAME a Raffles because it was so easy. I took up a criminal career because everything I had read on the subject indicated that it was a field of untold opportunity. It appealed to me particularly because it seemed to open up a quiet, refined life which assured excellent financial returns.

I believe that crime could be placed on the same stable basis as hundreds of so-called reputable kinds of business, if operated and controlled by persons of high intelligence. Summing up briefly, I became a burglar of the rich because it was the simplest way in which I could pursue a harmless, fascinating occupation in congenial surroundings, assuring myself a liberal income and still leaving me time to continue my studies.

Crime has always interested me. At first the interest was purely psychological. But the more I read, the more logical burglary seemed to me. One point was forced upon me (time and time again—how easy it was!) I read Lombroso, and his works filled me with delight. His "Criminal Woman" and "Degenerate Man" were fascinating studies of strange phases of life. But, somehow, though I felt that Lombroso's conclusions were fairly correct, his treatment of the cases was sometimes faulty.

Lombroso was a student of criminals rather than of criminology. He searched into their very souls behind the bars. But that was where he knew criminals—behind the bars! He didn't study them at their work, fired with the enthusiasm for it and keen for the results! All he knew was the caught criminal. And there is such a difference!

All Crime Interesting. But Lombroso's works fired my imagination and when I had finished them I turned to other stories of crime. For a long time I read nothing but them. Some were good; some bad. But all were interesting. Edgar Allan Poe was one of my favorites. What a master he was in stories of crime! How clearly I remember "The Milk White Eye!"

How I enjoyed "Raffles"—and how simply and logically he got away with everything he did. There was no reason why he shouldn't as long as he gave his attention to his business. It is like lines that spell failure.

My library is lined with books. I have thousands of them—the best that ever were written. One whole corner is given up to the well-known poets. As a boy I devoured poetry and Browning was my ideal. "Evelyn Hope" I consider his masterpiece. But it was Tennyson I loved. "In Memoriam" I may say I worship, if one worships that which appears on the printed page. Tennyson's power of spiritual expression, to my mind, has never been equaled since Shakespeare lived.

But Tennyson was forgotten when I found Lombroso. Only temporarily, to be sure; but though I felt I could elevate the standard of burglary beyond all low and common means, I didn't attempt to put any "spiritual expression" into it. So when I planned my entrance into a career of crime, it was Lombroso I used as a guide. To his investigations I added my own theories. For weeks and months I thought and studied crime almost night and day. I was planning to be a criminal, but I was going to make crime an art.

Law-Breaking a Scientific Study. My idea was that a cultured man, one of intellectual capabilities and attainments, could easily and successfully follow out a carefully planned criminal procedure that would completely frustrate the efforts of the so-called sleuths. I also believed that the profession could be made financially profitable and that nine-tenths of the risks could be eliminated. So I made crime a scientific study, with the purpose of establishing myself in a newer and broader career than any ever attempted. I saw no reason why I should not apply it to that peculiar form of labor, if you will, which has hitherto lacked its assistance.

"A watchman with a drawn revolver surprised me in the Durand home. I drew my own weapon and grappled with him, forcing him to drop his revolver before he could use it."

When my final resolution was made I determined to take whatever risks there might be, I laid down certain rules to follow that I hoped might eliminate unpleasant contingencies. First, I determined to direct my energies, my education and whatever talent I might possess against people of my own station in life. By this I mean in intelligence and breeding as well as wealth. I had no desire to win great wealth in my new career, as my family has considerable money, although it belongs to my mother. My principal idea was to experiment upon those who were able to defend themselves—to demonstrate my theories through persons who would not suffer seriously by my success.

My second resolution was to refrain from all violence. I had no idea of sacrificing my life foolishly to a theory. The law of self-preservation is one that even scientific study is unable to set aside. But I wanted no robbery of mine to end in murder. To make such a thing impossible, I laid my plans with extreme care and selected the time and place with unusual solicitude on that point. Frequently I accomplished my robberies without carrying any weapons.

When I started out on my career of burglary in February, I decided to loot the homes of my wealthy neighbors. Many of them I knew quite well; others only by sight, and some by name or reputation. While that perhaps was a natural beginning, it was in a certain way a safe one. Few of my intended victims knew much about me, but most of them knew I bore a good reputation.

Made List of Intended Victims. When I decided to broaden my activities, I prepared a new list of wealthy citizens. I made it up from the Blue Book of Chicago, the reports of the board of tax reviewers and the society columns of the daily papers.

Being on my list was conclusive evidence of wealth. All of them were millionaires and many of them multimillionaires. I watched for the announcement of their going abroad or away and closing their homes. I thought that a good time to commit my burglaries, as a private watchman or perhaps a servant or two was the only person to hinder me. Often there was no one. Things went so well I grew more ambitious. I cut down my list. I raised the financial entrance requirements. I wanted nothing but the homes of the wealthiest in which to prove my theories.

I loved to roam through the beautiful rooms and at my leisure to pick out the rare art treasures that appealed to my educated taste. Then there were paintings to pass upon in the weird light of the closed houses and jewels to be had for the opening of a drawer or the raising of a lid. I had learned in everything I read how easy crime is. The stories are true. It is the easiest thing in the world.

A criminal gets caught because he grows careless—because he becomes reckless. In my own short experience I went through both those phases. The way was so easy I soon lost my sense of fear of being discovered. Then I began to long for hazardous exploits. I wanted to rob a house that had every safeguard with all the odds against me. I wanted to prove my talent to myself.

Not Often in Danger.

I had only a few scares. A watchman with a drawn revolver surprised me in the Durand home. I drew my own weapon and grappled with him, forcing him to drop his revolver before he could use it. Then I fired in the air to frighten him. He was so scared he couldn't move. He watched me pick up his revolver and empty it of all its shells before I returned it to him. Then he watched me leave the building without daring to stop me. That experience taught me one thing, and that is that the learned man and the ignorant one alike resort to primal instincts when it comes to self-preservation.

One of my most narrow escapes was when I was leaving the Allerton residence at No. 1918 Prairie avenue. I had just stepped through a rear window when I heard the watchman. I barely had time to conceal myself behind the stairway. He was so near I thought he must hear me breathing. But he passed on without halting and went away.

It was not luck that was with me; it was science. And if I had only stuck to it, I could be out with a jimmy and a dark lantern now, getting more plunder.

For what purpose did I make no effort to realize any money on those nine trunks crammed with diamonds and precious stones, gold and silver ornaments, silks and satins and laces, silverware, antiques and trinkets? Just to prove how easy it is to be a Raffles; just to demonstrate what an education is worth in every walk of life; just to show what applied science can accomplish.

So I have proved that my original ideas are sound. The plan has no false note. I met with disaster because I allowed impulse to rule instead of reason. But my views on that phase of crime are unassailable. My point of view is the logical one. I failed because of my own folly. But I still maintain that my scientific burglary plan intelligently carried out is infallible.

The End of It All.

Guthrie was caught while depositing a forged check at a bank. As he finished looting the home of Mrs. Ella Wilson, No. 4613 Drexel boulevard, and was leaving the house, he spied a large envelope sticking out of the mail box. He took it; within was the monthly statement of Mrs. Wilson's account with the Central Trust Company. There was a balance of thousands of dollars and a new check book was enclosed. Mrs. Wilson was in Japan. Guthrie made use of the new tools which had so strangely fallen into his hands—to his undoing. And now he is in a Chicago prison.

PLATINUM REALLY AN ALLOY

Its Use by Jewelers and Dentists is What Has Made It a Costly Metal.

The mineral called platinum is really a natural alloy of iridium, rhodium, palladium and often osmium, with varying amounts of iron, copper and gold. It is usually found as small nuggets, scales and rounded or irregular grains. Its color is steel gray. The specific gravity of the crude platinum varies from 14 to 19. The output of platinum in the United States is practically limited to California and Oregon.

Owing to its high melting point and great resistance to acids, platinum is extensively used for laboratory utensils. Platinum salts are employed in chemical analyses. In the manufacture of sulphuric acid the metal has been used in making large concentration kettles, but of late gold has been substituted for it. In photography, dentistry and electric installation much platinum is used. Of late the manufacture of jewelry has consumed large quantities of it. It is extensively used for chains and for the setting of diamonds, the claim being made, not only that it is more resistant than silver and harder than gold, but that the stones are better offset by platinum and appear larger than in any other kind of setting.—From a Geological Survey Report.

Sure Remedy.

The editor of the correspondence columns had a busy day—a very busy day indeed. So busy, in fact that he had to enlist the services of John, the office boy, to read out the correspondence.

"What is the next query?" he asked, when he had gone half-way through the pile of letters.

"Oh," said John, "a reader in South Africa wants to know how to prevent the hairs in his moustache from falling out. What have I to put down, sir?"

"Well," replied the editor, after a pause, "just put down, 'The best way to prevent hairs from falling out is to brush them lightly apart—and keep them from quarrelling.'"

Turkey Takes

The Offensive

themselves in a hostile country with their lines of communication seriously endangered.

Kalimandja and Turdja are said to have fallen to the Turks and the Bulgarian loss is reported to be heavy. But while the Bulgars are struggling before Adrianople, the Servians are having their fill of fighting in their march on Uskub. They find themselves opposed by 40,000 Arnaut tribesmen, with a good knowledge of the country, and guerrilla warfare supported by 1,000 Turkish regulars and four batteries of artillery. Kumanova has not yet fallen and this town is the key to Uskub.

From the Montenegrins comes word that they have been bombarding Tarakaseh for the past four days. Scuteri, it appears, is not so easy to capture as the troops of King Nicholas thought at first after their successes in the early days of the war. Tarakaseh, which they claimed to have captured long since, is apparently a stumbling block.

The rumor that came from so many sources that Kirk-Killesseh had fallen to the Bulgars seems to have gone the way taken by so many of its kind since the war started, and now comes word that instead of any easy conquest, the Bulgarians have been fighting tooth and nail for that town since Oct. 21.

Mukhtar Pasha is the commander of the Turks there, and that veteran is fighting from behind his entrenchments with characteristic tenacity.

A dispatch from Constantinople says that the Greeks are bombarding Provesa, at the entrance to the Gulf of Arta, and have landed troops southeast of Salonika. Athens awaits news of an important grapple at the Turkish town of Servia.

A Constantinople dispatch gives a report that the battle has begun practically all along the line from Adrianople to Kirk-Killesseh, the Turkish troops advancing and the Bulgarians falling back with heavy losses.

Troop Train Wrecked.

Berlin, Oct. 23.—A Turkish troop train bound for the front was wrecked and 200 soldiers were killed, according to word received here from Salonika. Two reports were telegraphed. One was that the train had been derailed and rolled down an embankment, and the other was that it had been wrecked by Bulgarian spies.

* BELLIGERENTS WANT POWERS TO KEEP OUT.

Berlin, Oct. 23.—Bulgaria, Serbia and Greece have asked the powers to refrain from intervention in the Balkans. Turkey also, according to another report, has requested the chancelleries not to interfere in the conflict.

WONDERFUL WORK OF DOGS

If These Are Not Inventions of Drummers, They Surely Are Remarkable Animals.

The grocery drummer from Chicago had just made some remarks about household pets, which awakened a memory in the mind of the agent from the New York Bond house, out selling securities:

"Speaking of that," said he, flicking the ashes off the end of his cigar, "I'm very fond of dogs. I have a pointer at home that's a wonder. Taking him altogether, he is the most intelligent animal I ever saw. You gentlemen may not believe it, but it is nevertheless a fact that whenever I go out riding in my motor through a hitherto untraveled country I always take Roger along with me, and he sits up alongside of me in front. Whenever we come to a crossroad, and I find myself up a tree as to which turning to take, I simply put the question to him, and in every blessed case he has instinctively pointed in the right direction."

"I can well believe that," said the grocery drummer. "I have a retriever in my house that is quite as wonderful. I don't believe my wife and I could possibly get along without him. If my wife mislays anything, from a rolling pin to a bridge score, anywhere around the house, all she has to do is to set Bob after it, and he finds it. When I am in a hurry to catch a train in the morning and my collar button slips out of my hands and disappears, as collar buttons are almost certain to do at such moments, good old Bob gives a yelp of delight and goes after it, saving me no end of trouble, much time, and some language."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Women Run French Town.

Folksay, a small town halfway between Paris and Amiens, in France, is said to be the only civilized community in which the municipal affairs are entirely in the hands of women. The mayor is a woman, and so is the superintendent of the railway station, the switchman, the mail carrier and the town barber. Mme. Lesebore is the telegraph messenger and Mme. Druhou-Marchandin is the drummer whose duty it is to announce each proclamation of the mayor. Mme. Druhou-Marchandin is described as an octogenarian who has held her post through wind and rain for upward of twenty years. The letter carrier, Mme. Doubour, has held her office for more than ten years and goes about with her letters regardless of the weather.

COLLEGE-BRED RAFFLES TELLS HOW HE WAS LED TO BECOME A CRIMINAL

HEREWITH is an amazing true story of crime. A college-bred man of excellent family deliberately turns burglar. In six months he plunders the homes of the rich of a quarter of a million dollars' worth of art treasures, jewels and silverware, without seeking to dispose of any of it. Apparently his theories about successful burglars are correct, but he takes to forgery and is trapped.

Jacob Foy Guthrie, whose confession in his own words follows, is twenty-six. He has lived all his life at 1613 Prairie avenue, Chicago, with his mother and sister. He was graduated from Wendell Phillips high school there and in 1909 he received his degree from Armour institute. Then he took a special course in electrical engineering and had fine positions with the Commonwealth Edison company, as assistant chemist in the city laboratory, and as instructor in electrical science at the Lane Technical school. There he made his own jimmy and skeleton keys to take up his chosen work—burglary along scientific lines.

He announced that he was retiring from active work to study. This was true; he was studying—crime. Lombroso became his chief mentor.

By JACOB FOY GUTHRIE, B. S.

BECAME a Raffles because it was no easy. I took up a criminal career because everything I had read on the subject indicated that it was a field of untold opportunity. It appealed to me particularly because it seemed to open up a quiet, refined life which assured excellent financial returns.

I believe that crime could be placed on the same stable basis as hundreds of so-called reputable kinds of business, if operated and controlled by persons of high intelligence. Summing up briefly, I became a burglar of the rich because it was the simplest way in which I could pursue a harmless, fascinating occupation in congenial surroundings, assuring myself a liberal income and still leaving me time to continue my studies.

Crime has always interested me. At first the interest was purely psychological. But the more I read, the more logical burglary seemed to me. One point was forced upon me time and time again—how easy it all was! I read Lombroso, and his works filled me with delight. His "Criminal Woman" and "Degenerate Man" were fascinating studies of strange phases of life. But, somehow, though I felt that Lombroso's conclusions were fairly correct, his treatment of the cases was sometimes faulty.

Lombroso was a student of criminal rather than of criminology. He searched into their very souls behind the bars. But that was where he knew criminals—behind the bars! He didn't study them at their work, fired with the enthusiasm for it and keen for the results! All he knew was the caught criminal. And there is such a difference!

All Crime Interesting.

But Lombroso's works fired my imagination and when I had finished crime I turned to other stories of crime. For a long time I read nothing but them. Some were good; some bad. But all were interesting. Edgar Allan Poe was one of my favorites. What a master he was in stories of crime! How clearly I remember "The Milk White Eye!"

How I enjoyed "Raffles"—and how simply and logically he got away with everything he did. There was no reason why he shouldn't as long as he gave his attention to his business. It is side lines that spell failure.

My library is lined with books. I have thousands of them—the best that ever were written. One whole corner is given up to the well-known poets. As a boy I devoured poetry and Browning was my ideal. "Evelyn Hope" I consider his masterpiece. But it was Tennyson I loved. "In Memoriam" I may say I worship. If one worships that which appears on the printed page, Tennyson's power of spiritual expression, to my mind, has never been equaled since Shakespeare lived.

But Tennyson was forgotten when I found Lombroso. Only temporarily, to be sure; but, though I felt I could elevate the standard of burglary beyond all low and common means, I didn't attempt to put any "spiritual expression" into it. So when I planned my entrance into a career of crime, it was Lombroso I used as a guide. To his investigations I added my own theories. For weeks and months I thought and studied crime almost night and day. I was planning to be a criminal, but I was going to make crime an art.

Law-Breaking a Scientific Study. My idea was that a cultured man, one of intellectual capabilities and attainments, could easily and successfully follow out a carefully planned criminal procedure that would completely frustrate the efforts of the so-called sleuths. I also believed that the profession could be made financially profitable and that nine-tenths of the risks could be eliminated. So I made crime a scientific study, with the purpose of establishing myself in a newer and broader career than any ever attempted. I saw no reason why I should not apply to that peculiar form of labor, if you will, which has hitherto lacked its assistance.

When my final resolution was made I determined to take whatever risks there might be. I laid down certain rules to follow that I hoped might eliminate unpleasant contingencies. First, I determined to direct my energies, my education and whatever talent I might possess against people of my own station in life. By this I mean in intelligence and breeding as well as wealth. I had no desire to win great wealth in my new career, as my family has considerable money, although it belongs to my mother. My principal idea was to experiment upon those who were able to defend themselves—to demonstrate my theories through persons who would not suffer seriously by my success.

My second resolution was to refrain from all violence. I had no idea of sacrificing my life foolishly to a theory. The law of self-preservation is one that even scientific study is unable to set aside. But I wanted no robbery of mine to end in murder. To make such a thing impossible, I laid my plans with extreme care and selected the time and place with unusual solicitude on that point. Frequently I accomplished my robberies without carrying any weapons.

When I started out on my career of burglary in February, I decided to loot the homes of my wealthy neighbors. Many of them I knew quite well; others only by sight, and some by name or reputation. While that perhaps was a natural beginning, it was in a certain way a safe one. Few of my intended victims knew much about me, but most of them knew I bore a good reputation.

Made List of Intended Victims.

When I decided to broaden my activities, I prepared a new list of wealthy citizens. I made it up from the Blue Book of Chicago, the reports of the board of tax reviewers and the society columns of the daily papers.

Being on my list was conclusive evidence of wealth. All of them were millionaires and many of them multimillionaires. I watched for the announcement of their going abroad or away and closing their homes. I thought that a good time to commit my burglaries, as a private watchman or perhaps a servant or two was the only person to hinder me. Often there was no one. Things went so well I grew more ambitious. I cut down my list. I raised the financial entrance requirements. I wanted nothing but the homes of the wealthiest in which to prove my theories.

I loved to roam through the beautiful rooms and at my leisure to pick out the rare art treasures that appealed to my educated taste. Then there were paintings to pass upon in the weird light of the closed houses and jewels to be had for the opening of a drawer or the raising of a lid. I had learned in everything I read how easy crime is. The stories are true. It is the easiest thing in the world.

A criminal gets caught because he grows careless—because he becomes reckless. In my own short experience I went through both those phases. The way was so easy I soon lost my sense of fear of being discovered. Then I began to long for hazardous exploits. I wanted to rob a house that had every safeguard, with all the odds against me. I wanted to prove my talent to myself.

Not Often in Danger.

I had only a few scares. A watchman with a drawn revolver surprised me in the Durand home. I drew my own weapon and grappled with him, forcing him to drop his revolver before he could use it. Then I fired in the air to frighten him. He was so scared he couldn't move. He watched me pick up his revolver and empty it of all its shells before I returned it to him. Then he watched me leave the building without daring to stop me. That experience taught me one thing, and that is that the learned man and the ignorant one alike resort to primal instincts when it comes to self-preservation.

One of my most narrow escapes was when I was leaving the Allerton residence at No. 1918 Prairie avenue. I had just stepped through a rear window when I heard the watchman. I barely had time to conceal myself behind the stairway. He was so near I thought he must hear me breathing. But he passed on without halting and went away.

It was not luck that was with me; it was science. And if I had only stuck to it, I could be out with a jimmy and a dark lantern now, getting more plunder.

For what purpose did I make no effort to realize any money on those nine trunks crammed with diamonds and precious stones, gold and silver ornaments, silks and satins and laces, silverware, antiques and trinkets? Just to prove how easy it is to be a Raffles; just to demonstrate what an education is worth in every walk of life; just to show what applied science can accomplish.

So I have proved that my original ideas are sound. The plan has no false note. I met with disaster because I allowed impulse to rule instead of reason. But my views on that phase of crime are unassailable. My point of view is the logical one. I failed because of my own folly. But I still maintain that my scientific burglary plan intelligently carried out is infallible.

Kumanova has not yet fallen and this town is the key to Uskub.

From the Montenegrins comes word that they have been bombarding Tarakasch for the past four days. Scuteri, it appears, is not so easy to capture as the troops of King Nicholas thought at first after their successes in the early days of the war. Tarakasch, which they claimed to have captured long since, is apparently a stumbling block.

The rumor that came from so many sources that Kirk-Killesseh had fallen to the Bulgars seems to have gone the way taken by so many of its kind since the war started, and now comes word that instead of any easy conquest, the Bulgarians have been fighting tooth and nail for that town since Oct. 21.

Mukhtar Pasha is the commander of the Turks there, and that veteran is fighting from behind his entrenchments with characteristic tenacity.

A dispatch from Constantinople says that the Greeks are bombarding Provasa, at the entrance to the Gulf of Arta, and have landed troops southeast of Salonika. Athens awaits news of an important grapple at the Turkish town of Servia.

A Constantinople dispatch gives a report that the battle has begun practically all along the line from Adrianople to Kirk-Killesseh, the Turkish troops advancing and the Bulgarians falling back with heavy losses.

Troop Train Wrecked.

Berlin, Oct. 23.—A Turkish troop train bound for the front was wrecked and 200 soldiers were killed, according to word received here from Salonika. Two reports were telegraphed. One was that the train had been derailed and rolled down an embankment, and the other was that it had been wrecked by Bulgarian spies.

* BELLIGERENTS WANT POWERS TO KEEP OUT. *

Berlin, Oct. 23.—Bulgaria, Serbia and Greece have asked the powers to refrain from intervention in the Balkans. Turkey also, according to another report, has requested the chancelleries not to interfere in the conflict.

WONDERFUL WORK OF DOGS

If These Are Not Inventions of Drummers, They Surely Are Remarkable Animals.

The grocery drummer from Chicago had just made some remarks about household pets, which awakened a memory in the mind of the agent from the New York Bond house, out selling securities:

"Speaking of that," said he, flicking the ashes of the end of his cigar, "I'm very fond of dogs. I have a pointer at home that's a wonder. Taking him altogether, he is the most intelligent animal I ever saw. You gentlemen may not believe it, but it is nevertheless a fact that whenever I go out riding in my motor through a hitherto untraveled country I always take Roger along with me, and he sits up alongside of me in front. Whenever we come to a crossroad, and I find myself up a tree as to which turning to take, I simply put the question to him, and in every blessed case he has instinctively pointed in the right direction."

"I can well believe that," said the grocery drummer. "I have a retriever in my house that is quite as wonderful. I don't believe my wife and I could possibly get along without him. If my wife mislays anything, from a rolling pin to a bridge score, anywhere around the house, all she has to do is to set Bob after it, and he finds it. When I am in a hurry to catch a train in the morning and my collar button slips out of my hands and disappears, as collar buttons are almost certain to do at such moments, good old Bob gives a yelp of delight and goes after it, saving me no end of trouble, much time, and some language."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Women Run French Town.

Folsay, a small town halfway between Paris and Amiens, in France, is said to be the only civilized community in which the municipal affairs are entirely in the hands of women. The mayor is a woman, and so is the superintendent of the railway station, the switchman, the mail carrier and the town barber. Mme. Lesebore is the telegraph messenger and Mme. Druhou-Marchardin is the drummer whose duty it is to announce each proclamation of the mayor. Mme. Druhou-Marchardin is described as an octogenarian who has held her post through wind and rain for upward of twenty years. The letter carrier, Mme. Doubour, has held her office for more than ten years and goes about with her letters regardless of the weather.

PASSING OF "MINER" BROWN LEFT HANDERS ARE DYING OUT

Chicago Cubs Ask for Waivers on Services of Veteran "Three-Fingered" Twirling Star.

Mordecai Brown, curving wizard, is soon to pass along, leaving behind him a record of wonderful deeds in the national game. Waivers have been asked on the three-fingered star who has done so much toward bringing pennants and world's championships to Chicago, and his departure from the West side, slated for the near future, is due to the fact that he injured his right knee while engaged in winning a ten-inning ball game last July. Since that mishap "Brownie" has been of no service to the club and President Murphy applied for waivers. Last winter he signed a three-year contract.

News of the action taken by the Cub management leaked out in the east and was confirmed by Manager Chance upon his return to Chicago. He stated he had learned this news from another player while sojourning in the east. Although the waivers have been sought it doesn't necessarily follow that Brown will be lost to the National league, for the veteran is regarded by every manager and magnate in the country as a star and valuable man in more departments than pitching.

It was while Brownie was with Omaha that Chance was first attracted by his pitching. He advised Frank Selee to land the three-fingered twirler, but the deal never was completed until 1904, when the Cub manager shoved through a trade whereby Brown came to the West side along with Catcher O'Neill for the veteran Jack Taylor. From the season 1905 to the present time Brownie has been rated one of the greatest twirlers the game ever has known.

Four world's championships have been featured by the presence of the Hoosier phenom, and in two of these he played a prominent part in helping the Cubs capture the highest honor in organized baseball. For three years he was unbeatable in games between Chicago and Pittsburgh, while the New York Giants seldom were able to solve his delivery. Perhaps his greatest feat was staged in Chicago's final triumph over the Giants for the National league flag in 1908, when, after Pfister had been driven from the slab Mordecai went in and from the third to the ninth silenced the enemy without allowing another tally.

Mr. Jas. V. Churchill, 90 Wall St., Auburn, N. Y., has been bothered with serious kidney and bladder trouble ever since he left the army, and says: "I decided to try Foley's Kidney Pills as they had cured so many people and I soon found they were just the thing. My kidneys and bladder are again in a healthy condition. I gladly recommend them." Many an old soldier has never recovered the effects of army life. Foley's Kidney Pills are tonic in action, quick in results. The genuine in a yellow package. Blackmer & Tanquary, Druggists.

Arthur Irwin, Veteran Scout of New York Americans, Reports Scarcity of Southpaws.

After several weeks spent in observing the work of young players in the minor leagues throughout the country, Arthur Irwin, the veteran scout of the New York Americans, has come to the conclusion that the left-handed pitcher is dying out.

"I've combed the bushes this year as never before," said Irwin on his recent return to New York, "and never did I see such a scarcity of southpaws. They are not to be had.

"My experience is the same as the experience of other scouts with whom I have talked. I cannot account for it, except on the theory that left-handed persons are getting rare in all walks of life.

"In my travels this season I saw very few left-handed pitchers, fewer than I ever saw in all my years in baseball. I'll venture the prediction that next season there will be fewer new southpaws in the big leagues than in any season in twenty-five years."

New Job for Mike Kelly. Mike Kelly, manager of the St. Paul team in the American association, has decided to accept the offer of the managership of the Indianapolis team, which is accompanied by an opportunity to buy a large block of stock in the Hoosier club. Kelly will take charge at once.

AROUND THE BASES

Tesreau leads the New York pitchers in shut-out games.

Red Doon seems to be able to break anything but his streak of bad luck.

Marsans, the Cuban, is the find of the Cincy team this season. His hitting is wonderfully good.

Eddie Collins thinks Stahl has one of the greatest pitching staves ever assembled on one big league club.

Harry Tuthill, the trainer of the Detroit Tigers, is back at his old job training the West Point football team.

It is said that Joe Wood, the star pitcher of the American league, butted into baseball just to keep from starving.

McGraynor, the Reds' recruit pitcher from the Ohio State league, had a try-out with the Yankees two years ago.

Veach, the recruit outfielders of the Detroit Tigers, is the first big leaguer of that name since the days of the famous Peck-a-boo.

No truth in the report that the Pittsburgh club is going to change Hans. Freddy Clarke will keep him at the shortstop meadow.

It has been rumored that Bill Donovan, ex-Tiger, now managing the Providence International league club, will manage the Brooklyn next season.

This is Hugh Bedient's second time with the Red Sox. He was drafted by Boston two years ago and later was sent to the International league for a little seasoning.

There are a lot of teams in the National whose players express the hope that Eppa Rixley's "paw" will keep him out of baseball next season. He's likely to get pesky then.

Frank Chance is quoted as saying that he believes Mathewson is still one of the greatest pitchers in the game. That is a compliment that means much coming from the Cub leader.

Mrs. T. A. Town, 107 6th St., Waretown, S. D., writes: "My four children are subject to hard colds and I always use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound with splendid results. Some time ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and the doctor prescribed Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and it soon overcame the la grippe. I can always depend upon Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and am sure of good results." For all coughs and colds in children and grown persons, and for chronic coughs of elderly people. TELLS OF GEYSERS

Every Year More Tourists Throng Yellowstone Park.

"Old Faithful" Resembles Symmetrical Cone. Containing 250,000 Gallons of Steaming Water 150 Feet High.

Yellowstone Park.—Yellowstone National Park every year furnishes a center of interest for increasing numbers of vacationists. The government has taken precautions to preserve this, the greatest of American wonders, for years to come. The acting superintendent of the park is the commanding officer of Fort Yellowstone, a four-company post. Hunting is not permitted in the reserve, but visitors may fish for trout. The Government protects the animals in the park and sees to it that the natural formations of stone are not damaged by vandals.

The geysers are principal attractions in Yellowstone. There are thousands of these strange natural phenomena there; some are almost constantly active, while others seem to be extinct. Old Faithful geyser has been thus described:

"In imagination lift in a symmetrical cone 250,000 gallons of scalding, steaming water 150 feet high and hold it there three minutes, jewel the grand fountain with a million diamonds, filter through it the hues of innumerable dancing rainbows, commingle in confusion every sound of splash and splutter—and you will have a faint idea of Old Faithful in action.

"It is the immutable water clock of the Yellowstone, the most perfect illustration of geyseric phenomena, the most famous and beautiful geyser in the whole world.

"The note of the beginning of the play of the geyser is an angry growl down deep in its throat, whence almost instantly the water, in rapid recurrent leaps, forms the stately fountain that plays for three minutes and then slowly sinks into the earth to await its time to rise again. Sometimes the winds unfold from its top an iridescent banner of spray, but more often the fountain form is a perfect cone.

"Old Faithful plays every seventy minutes, and never disappoints. In the daytime, under the sun, it glistens and gleams with prismatic hues; but the most enchanting hour to witness

its performance is that when night is falling—when the dusk is around it and the last faint tints of the sun linger in the sky. Then it is a spectre in ghostly white standing against the sombre background of the wilderness—a sight strange and startling and never to be forgotten.

The visitor to Yellowstone Park will find the animals there of unusual interest. No sound of gun or bark of dog is ever heard and the wild animals have become so tame that they have no fear of the tourist and give only a passing glance at the visitors. Deer, buffalo, elk and bear roam through the Yellowstone. The bears come down from their caves in the evening and feed about the hotels. Excellent hotel accommodations are to be found in the Yellowstone and competent guides are to be hired.

RAISE MANGO IN FLORIDA

Government Experimenters Succeed With Tree Given to Official by Prince in India.

Washington.—President Taft has been presented with a fine basket of East Indian mangoes raised in the United States. The bureau of plant introduction, which is experimenting with hundreds of foreign fruits in the effort to find new varieties that will grow here, raised the mangoes in Florida. They came from a tree presented to David Fairchild, chief of the bureau of plant introduction, when he was in India some years ago, by one of the princes of that land. Mr. Fairchild says mango growing in the United States can be made a commercial success.

BEST ASSET POOR MEMORY

Why James is Regarded With Favor by the Inhabitants of His Boarding House.

James is a very popular negro in a boarding house and is accounted unusually reliable. He receives, therefore, frequent gratuities and is exceedingly prosperous.

This in spite of the fact that he has one of the greatest capacities for forgetting of any one to be met with even among the employees of a boarding house.

What, then, is the secret of his reputation for being a reliable man? One boarder has studied the problem and gives the answer:

"He never refuses to execute a commission, is always apparently attentive to any order given him, and when the angry boarder blows him up for his failure to do what he was told he takes it meekly and stoically.

"He seems such an easy mark that the boarder goes on and on with his abuse until he feels that he has gone too far. Then he grows ashamed of himself and slips James a quarter.

"Thank you, sir," says James, and they both feel better, and the boarder remarks, 'James is a pretty good boy after all'."

Height of Wisdom Exhibited by Mr. Tobie Sagg on His Periodical Visit to Kansas City.

"Whenever I am in Kansas City," stated Mr. Tobie Sagg, of Goshkonong, "and feel stealin' go'er me a low, feeble yearning to put myself in the clutches of a total stranger, ramble 'round in apocryphal places and fill my system with aqua fortis and dog feed, to be found next morning by the pious monks of St. Bernard, groping dazedly and ready to burble to the police my real name and address and the customary lie that I have been trimmed of $3,752 in cash and notes—well, when I feel any such microbes gnawing at my I order up to my room in the hotel a pitcher of ice water and lock the door, clink the ice awail, look through the bottom of the empty tumbler 46 consecutive times, and then go to bed with my $25.15 under my pillow, to make next morning serene content in the knowledge that I have deprived the newspapers of an interesting item and cheated the folks at home out of a story that would have been told on me unto the third and fourth generations of them that hate me."—Kansas City Star.

Editorial Confessions.

The following confessions have been made by Thomas E. Thompson:

"I once had a round key check with my name on it—about the size of a silver quarter. Occasionally when at church I found myself dead broke. I would drop that key check into the hat for a bluff and the next day the brother treasurer would bring it around and I would redeem it. But one time it went out and never came back, and now I have to put in the coin or give the sign of distress.

"Once when I was on earth the first time I tried to make love to a giggly girl. She laughed me out of court and I was firmly convinced that she was not capable of a sensible, serious thought. I saw her not long ago and she looked as if she hadn't giggled or even smiled for a score of years and I was glad she treated me as a joke in the other days."—Kansas City Star.

Perhaps his greatest feat was staged in Chicago's final triumph over the Giants for the National league flag in 1908, when, after Piester had been driven from the slab Mordecai went in and from the third to the ninth silenced the enemy without allowing another tally.

Arthur Irwin, Veteran Scout of New York Americans, Reports Scarcity of Southpaws.

After several weeks spent in observing the work of young players in the minor leagues throughout the country, Arthur Irwin, the veteran scout of the New York Americans, has come to the conclusion that the left-handed pitcher is dying out.

"I've combed the bushes this year as never before," said Irwin on his recent return to New York, "and never did I see such a scarcity of southpaws. They are not to be had.

"My experience is the same as the experience of other scouts with whom I have talked. I cannot account for it, except on the theory that left-handed persons are getting rare in all walks of life.

"In my travels this season I saw very few left-handed pitchers, fewer than I ever saw in all my years in baseball. I'll venture the prediction that next season there will be fewer new southpaws in the big leagues than in any season in twenty-five years."

New Job for Mike Kelly.
Mike Kelly, manager of the St. Paul team in the American association, has decided to accept the offer of the management of the Indianapolis team, which is accompanied by an opportunity to buy a large block of stock in the Hoosier club. Kelly will take charge at once.

AROUND THE BASES

Tesreau leads the New York pitchers in shut-out games.

Red Doon seems to be able to break anything but his streak of bad luck.

Marsans, the Cuban, is the find of the Cincy team this season. His hitting is wonderfully good.

Eddie Collins thinks Stahl has one of the greatest pitching stiffs ever assembled on one big league club.

Harry Tuthill, the trainer of the Detroit Tigers, is back at his old job training the West Point football team.

It is said that Joe Wood, the star pitcher of the American league, butted into baseball just to keep from starving.

McGraynor, the Reds' recruit pitcher from the Ohio State league, had a try-out with the Yankees two years ago.

Veach, the recruit outfielders of the Detroit Tigers, is the first big leaguer of that name since the days of the famous Peek-a-boo.

No truth in the report that the Pittsburgh club is going to change names. Freddy Clarke will keep him at the shortstop meadow.

It has been rumored that Bill Donovan, ex-Tiger, now managing the Providence International league club, will manage the Brooklyn next season.

This is Hugh Bedient's second time with the Red Sox. He was drafted by Boston two years ago and later was sent to the International league for a little seasoning.

There are a lot of teams in the National whose players express the hope that Eppa Rixley's "paw" will keep him out of baseball next season. He's likely to get pesky then.

Frank Chance is quoted as saying that he believes Mathewson is still one of the greatest pitchers in the game. That is a compliment that means much coming from the Cub leader.

Mrs. T. A. Town, 107 6th St., Watertown, S. D., writes: "My four children are subject to hard colds and I always use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound with splendid results. Some time ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and the doctor prescribed Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and it soon overcame the la grippe. I can always depend upon Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and am sure of good results." For all coughs and colds in children and grown persons, and for chronic coughs of elderly people. TELLS OF GEYSERS

Every Year More Tourists Throng Yellowstone Park.

"Old Faithful" Resembles Symmetrical Cone Containing 250,000 Gallons of Steaming Water 150 Feet High.

Yellowstone Park—Yellowstone National Park every year furnishes a center of interest for increasing numbers of vacationists. The government has taken precautions to preserve this, the greatest of American wonders, for years to come. The acting superintendent of the park is the commanding officer of Fort Yellowstone, a four-company post. Hunting is not permitted in the reserve, but visitors may fish for trout. The Government protects the animals in the park and sees to it that the natural formations of stone are not damaged by vandals.

The geysers are principal attractions in Yellowstone. There are thousands of these strange natural phenomena there; some are almost constantly active, while others seem to be extinct. Old Faithful geyser has been thus described:

"In imagination lift in a symmetrical cone 250,000 gallons of scalding, steaming water 150 feet high and hold it there three minutes, jewel the grand fountain with a million diamonds, filter through it the hues of innumerable dancing rainbows, commingling in confusion every sound of splash and splutter—and you will have a faint idea of Old Faithful in action.

"It is the immutable water clock of the Yellowstone, the most perfect illustration of geyseric phenomena, the most famous and beautiful geyser in the whole world.

"The note of the beginning of the play of the geyser is an angry growl down deep in its throat, whence almost instantly the water, in rapid recurrent leaps, forms the stately fountain that plays for three minutes and then slowly sinks into the earth to await its time to rise again. Sometimes the winds unfold from its top an iridescent banner of spray, but more often the fountain form is a perfect cone.

"Old Faithful plays every seventy minutes, and never disappoints. In the daytime, under the sun, it glistens and gleams with prismatic hues; but the most enchanting hour to witness

its performance is that when night is falling—when the dusk is around it and the last faint tints of the sun linger in the sky. Then it is a spectre in ghostly white standing against the sombre background of the wilderness—a sight strange and startling and never to be forgotten.

The visitor to Yellowstone Park will find the animals there of unusual interest. No sound of gun or bark of dog is ever heard and the wild animals have become so tame that they have no fear of the tourist and give only a passing glance at the visitors. Deer, buffalo, elk and bear roam through the Yellowstone. The bears come down from their caves in the evening and feed about the hotels. Excellent hotel accommodations are to be found in the Yellowstone and competent guides are to be hired.

RAISE MANGO IN FLORIDA

Government Experimenters Succeed With Tree Given to Official by Prince in India.

Washington.—President Taft has been presented with a fine basket of East Indian mangoes raised in the United States. The bureau of plant introduction, which is experimenting with hundreds of foreign fruits in the effort to find new varieties that will grow here, raised the mangoes in Florida. They came from a tree presented to David Fairchild, chief of the bureau of plant introduction, when he was in India some years ago, by one of the princes of that land. Mr. Fairchild says mango growing in the United States can be made a commercial success.

Why James is Regarded With Favor by the Inhabitants of His Boarding House.

James is a very popular negro in a boarding house and is accounted unusually reliable. He receives, therefore, frequent gratuities and is exceedingly prosperous.

This in spite of the fact that he has one of the greatest capacities for forgetting of any one to be met with even among the employees of a boarding house.

What, then, is the secret of his reputation for being a reliable man? One boarder has studied the problem and gives the answer:

"He never refuses to execute a commission, is always apparently attentive to any order given him, and when the angry boarder blows him up for his failure to do what he was told he takes it meekly and stoically.

"He seems such an easy mark that the boarder goes on and on with his abuse until he feels that he has gone too far. Then he grows ashamed of himself and slips James a quarter.

"Thank you, sir," says James, and they both feel better, and the boarder remarks, 'James is a pretty good boy after all.'"

GOT AHEAD OF THE PAPERS

Height of Wisdom Exhibited by Mr. Tobe Sagg on His Periodical Visit to Kansas City.

"Whenever I am in Kansas City," stated Mr. Tobe Sagg, of Goshkonong, "and feel stealin' go'er me a low, febrile yearning to put myself in the clutches of a total stranger, ramble 'round in apocryphal places and fill my system with aqua fortis and dog feed, to be found next morning by the pious monks of St. Bernard, groping dazedly and ready to burble to the police my real name and address and the customary lie that I have been trimmed of $2,752 in cash and notes—well, when I feel any such microbes gnawing at my I order up to my room in the hotel a pitcher of ice water and lock the door, clink the ice awhile, look through the bottom of the empty tumbler 46 consecutive times, and then go to bed with my $25.15 under my pillow, to make next morning serene content in the knowledge that I have deceived the newspapers of 20 interesting item and cheated the folks at home out of a story that would have been told on me unto the third and fourth generations of them that hate me."—Kansas City Star.

Editorial Confessions.

The following confessions have been made by Thomas E. Thompson:

"I once had a round key check with my name on it—about the size of a silver quarter. Occasionally when at church I found myself dead broke. I would drop that key check into the hat for a bluff and the next day the brother treasurer would bring it around and I would redeem it. But one time it went out and never came back, and now I have to put in the coin or give the sign of distress.

"Once when I was on earth the first time I tried to make love to a giggly girl. She laughed me out of court and I was firmly convinced that she was not capable of a sensible, serious thought. I saw her not long ago and she looked as if she hadn't giggled or even smiled for a score of years and I was glad she treated me as a joke in the other days."—Kansas City Star.

GAY NIGHT LIFE IN BERLIN

Charlottenburg, Fashionable Section of Capital, Objects to Revelers' Late Hours.

Berlin, Germany.—The city council and police of Charlottenburg, a fashionable residence section that is independent of the Berlin municipality, have decided to take a firm stand against the night life from Berlin proper that gathers in the suburb, a correspondent says. All night long there is carousing and the bars, restaurants and cafes swarm until five and six o'clock in the morning. Then the revelers go home in the bright daylight, arriving at Berlin just as the workers are emerging for their daily tasks.

For some time the number of so-called American bars has been increasing in Charlottenburg, opening in the best streets and driving out the residents. It has now been decided not to license any more bars and cafes and those in existence will be suppressed as far as possible, or at least made to close at decent hours. One o'clock has been set as the hour for closing and it is believed that as the greater part of the patronage is after that hour, the new rule will have the effect of driving a majority of the places out of business. It is also proposed to prohibit dancing in places which are not specifically licensed for that purpose. The decentralization of night carousing from Berlin proper to the residence sections has been causing much worry of late, and this is the first attempt to stem the tide.

Mind-Reading.

A young man and his wife, accompanied by their two children, a boy and a girl, entered a street car and sat down on one of the side seats. The girl was a beauty, while the little boy, with strongly marked features and freckled skin, was quite the opposite.

Directly across the aisle sat two ladies, evidently a mother and daughter. The younger of the two looked critically at the children. Then she scrutinized the parents. Then she turned to the elder lady, smiled, and made a whispered remark. The young man, who had been watching her, leaned forward.

"Madam," he said, "you are quite right. The girl fortunately looks like mother, and the boy looks like me."

That he had guessed accurately what was passing in her mind, her look of confusion left no doubt.—Youth's Companion.

LIBEL ON ARIZONA WEATHER

Tale Impressed Englishman, Who Probably Went Home and Wrote a Book About It.

"Hot weather reminds me," said the fellow who is always ready to tell a story when he gets an opening. "I was riding down through Arizona last summer on a train on which there was a party of Englishmen. You never know what hot weather is until you ride through some of those southwestern states in the summer. The heat rolls up in waves and smites you. Everything except the rattlesnakes and the Indians stay out of the sun's rays as much as possible.

"On a station platform stood a dilapidated sprinkling can. It was full of dents and the spout was lying near the can, both evidently not having been used for months.

"You know I have been telling you we have some hot weather out here," said a westerner to one of the Englishmen. "Well, look at that sprinkling can. It has been so hot that it has melted the spout right off! And the farther west you get the hotter it gets," the native son finished as he noticed the awed look on the foreigner's face."

Took Care of It.

A nice, new mackintosh was little Bessie's birthday present from her father, and the seven-year-old was very proud of it.

That very morning, as she set out for school proudly attired in the mackintosh, mother called after her:

"You'll be very careful of that nice cloak, dear, won't you?"

"Yes, mother," said Bessie dutifully. On coming out of school, Bessie started in horror. It was pouring hard; great, big drops of rain that splattered on the pavement. Hastily rolling up the nice, new mackintosh, she thrust it under her little pinafore and started for home.

"Why, dearie, you are drenched!" cried her mother, in surprise. "Why didn't you put on your mackintosh?"

Bessie eyed her in sorrowful anger. "You—you told me—to take care of it!" she sobbed indignantly.—London Answers.

COWARDLY ATTEMPT MADE ON THE LIFE OF RECORDER BROWN

Young Colored Man Fires Rifle Ball Into Automobile Driven By Toien E. Brown.

FERREL CASTLE CHARGED WITH SHOOTING TO KILL

Ball Struck Back of Seat, Just a Few Inches From Top, and Mr. Brown and Wife Have Miraculous Escape—Trial Will Be Held Tomorrow Morning.

A cowardly attempt was made to kill or wound County Recorder Toien E. Brown and wife, or injure their automobile Tuesday afternoon while they were returning to this city after visiting friends at Madison Mills, and as a result of the attempted assassination Ferrell Castle, aged 17 years, colored, and residing in this city, is charged with shooting with intent to kill.

The shooting occurred between 4 and 5 o'clock on the Columbus pike, near the two-mile bridge over Paint creek, just after Mr. and Mrs. Brown had passed the young man and a companion named Bill Mayo.

The two young colored men were walking along the road, Mayo carrying a bag containing walnuts and Castle carrying a 22 caliber rifle. When the auto had passed them a short distance Mr. Brown heard a shot fired and thought the ball struck the machine, but paid little attention to the matter until he arrived in this city and made an examination, finding that the ball had struck the back of the rear seat, at a point just a few inches from the top, leaving a big dent in the metal back.

Had the ball been a few inches higher it would have struck Mr. or Mrs. Brown in the back, or probably the head.

After beholding the result of the murderous attempt to shoot him, Mr. Brown placed the affair in the hands of the police and the two boys were placed under arrest on a charge of shooting to kill.

Wednesday they were taken before Mayor Smith, pleas of not guilty were entered, and Mayo was dismissed. Castle's trial was set for Thursday and he was returned to the county jail to await trial.

Mr. Brown says the shot was fired wholly without cause, but with the evident intention of striking him. The distance caused the ball to drop somewhat and thus prevented it from striking the occupants of the auto.

The Hill Wild West Show Comes Back for Winter

Mr. H. A. Hill, owner of the Hill Wild West shows, closed a successful season at Canal Dover last week and brought his shows back here Tuesday over the Pennsylvania for the winter.

Mr. Hill says he and his shows have never had such good treatment anywhere as he has found in Washington C. H., and claims that it is "like coming back home."

The shows will winter on the John Green farm, recently sold, on the Robinson road. The accommodations and location of this farm are particularly desirable for the shows' winter quarters.

Mr. Hill has added stock to his shows, making them considerably larger than they were.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill will go into winter quarters with their show.

Purse Secured From Finder

Detective Kennedy was in this city Wednesday to file an affidavit against Harry Carroll, of West Carrollton, O., charging larceny, but discovered that owing to a new turn of affairs that this could hardly be done.

Carroll is the man who found a purse belonging to Mrs. Almira Turner, of Blanchester, some three weeks ago. He picked the purse up in the B. & O. station in this city, and Mrs. Turner later notified the officials here that she had lost it.

Carroll was notified that the purse belonged to Mrs. Carroll, but kept it under the pretext that no one had identified it. The local authorities wrote him that if the purse, which contained nearly $50, was not returned at once, that arrest would follow.

It was learned Wednesday that Sanford Brown, of Blanchester, had made the trip to West Carrollton and forced the man to give up the purse to be returned to Mrs. Turner.

Had the purse not been returned, Carroll would have been in the toils of the law by this time.

Evidence All In Arguments Made

The case of Ohio against James Strattenburger has been attracting no little interest in Common Pleas court.

Wednesday afternoon the evidence was all in and each side was given

one hour and fifteen minutes for argument, and the case was expected to go to the jury about four o'clock.

Ollie Downard again gave testimony that Strattenburger was along and helped turn the robbery, but stated that Tom Wackman broke in to the store and handed out the articles to Downard and Strattenburger. Others testified that Strattenburger was with Downard and Wackman.

On the other hand Strattenburger's folks testify that he was in bed on the night of the robbery.

South High Comes Next

Washington and South High will play on the local gridiron Saturday afternoon, and another hard game is predicted, with Washington probably winners.

The Columbus bunch is made up of large fellows who have the reputation of doing some fast playing, but the local team entertains the belief that though Columbus is strong, she is not as strong as Springfield, and that the result will be in Washington's favor.

NEEDED THAT OTHER ROOT

Patients of Dentists Will Appreciate Story of "Nerve" That Comes From Kansas City.

In Kansas City there dwells a man whose boast is that he has "the nerve," and at least one dental surgeon will support him in his claim.

The man with "the nerve" suffered from the pangs of an aching molar and at last sought out his friend the dentist and announced that the tooth must come out. The man with the forceps made a hasty examination and suggested that a filling would relieve the agony, but to no avail.

"That tooth must be pulled," said the "nerve man," "but I want to warn you right now, Doc, that you won't get it the first yank. I have had seven teeth drawn and no dentist lives who can pull one of my teeth the first trial."

The dentist prides himself with the numerous compliments paid him for dexterity in extraction and "the nerve" man's words were a challenge.

"I'll get that tooth the very first time I pull it."

"Bet you the drinks you don't," was the patient's retort.

"Done," said the doctor.

The professional man motioned his patron to the operating chair and selected the proper forceps. The cold steel clamped firmly on the tooth, and with a slightly rocking motion the dentist began to pull. The tooth held firm and it looked as if the dentist's reputation as an extractor must suffer. At last, just as little beads of sweat were forming on the operator's brow, he smiled and in another second the three-pronged cause of the trouble lay on the swinging bracket by the dental chair.

No word or sign had been given by the sufferer, who then raised from the chair, grasped the removed tooth in his fingers and gazed at its three roots in contemplation.

There was a tone of real sadness in his voice as he regretfully said:

"If that thing had only had another root, I'd have won the drinks."—Kansas City Journal.

WAS TAKING NO CHANCES

Casey Unwilling to Take the Word of His Rival When It Would End Hostilities.

It had come to blows at last. After many threats and sundry fist-shakings, not to mention odd brick-ends which were thrown, Casey and Riley determined to "have it out," so they adjourned to a neighboring field, followed by an enthusiastic, admiring crowd.

Before they commenced their display it was agreed mutually that whoever wanted to quit should say "Enough," and with that they started.

After a few minutes Casey got Riley down, and was hammering him unmercifully, when Riley shrieked out several times, "Enough!"

As Casey paid no attention, but kept on administering punishment, a bystander said, "Why don't you let him get up? Don't you hear him say that he's got enough?"

"I do," said Casey, "but he's such a liar you can't believe him."—London Tit-Bits.

IGAY NIGHT LIFE IN BERLIN

Charlottenburg, Fashionable Section of Capital, Objects to Revelers' Late Hours.

Berlin, Germany.—The city council and police of Charlottenburg, a fashionable residence section that is independent of the Berlin municipality, have decided to take a firm stand against the night life from Berlin proper that gathers in the suburb, a correspondent says. All night long there is carousing and the bars, restaurants and cafes swarm until five and six o'clock in the morning. Then the revelers go home in the bright daylight, arriving at Berlin just as the workers are emerging for their daily tasks.

For some time the number of so-called American bars has been increasing in Charlottenburg, opening in the best streets and driving out the residents. It has now been decided not to license any more bars and cafes and those in existence will be suppressed as far as possible, or at least made to close at decent hours. One o'clock has been set as the hour for closing and it is believed that as the greater part of the patronage is after that hour, the new rule will have the effect of driving a majority of the places out of business. It is also proposed to prohibit dancing in places which are not specifically licensed for that purpose. The decentralization of night carousing from Berlin proper to the residence sections has been causing much worry of late, and this is the first attempt to stem the tide.

MADE ON THE LIFE OF RECORDER BROWN

Young Colored Man Fires Rifle Ball Into Automobile Driven By Tolon E. Brown.

FERREL CASTLE CHARGED WITH SHOOTING TO KILL

Ball Struck Back of Seat, Just a Few Inches From Top, and Mr. Brown and Wife Have Miraculous Escape—Trial Will Be Held Tomorrow Morning.

A cowardly attempt was made to kill or wound County Recorder Tolon E. Brown and wife, or injure their automobile Tuesday afternoon while they were returning to this city after visiting friends at Madison Mills, and as a result of the attempted assassination Ferrell Castle, aged 17 years, colored, and residing in this city, is charged with shooting with intent to kill.

The shooting occurred between 4 and 5 o'clock on the Columbus pike, near the two-mile bridge over Paint creek, just after Mr. and Mrs. Brown had passed the young man and a companion named Bill Mayo.

The two young colored men were walking along the road, Mayo carrying a bag containing walnuts and Castle carrying a 22 caliber rifle. When the auto had passed them a short distance Mr. Brown heard a shot fired and thought the ball struck the machine, but paid little attention to the matter until he arrived in this city and made an examination, finding that the ball had struck the back of the rear seat, at a point just a few inches from the top, leaving a big dent in the metal back.

Had the ball been a few inches higher it would have struck Mr. or Mrs. Brown in the back, or probably the head.

After beholding the result of the murderous attempt to shoot him, Mr. Brown placed the affair in the hands of the police and the two boys were placed under arrest on a charge of shooting to kill.

Wednesday they were taken before Mayor Smith, pleas of not guilty were entered, and Mayo was dismissed. Castle's trial was set for Thursday and he was returned to the county jail to await trial.

Mr. Brown says the shot was fired wholly without cause, but with the evident intention of striking him. The distance caused the ball to drop somewhat and thus prevented it from striking the occupants of the auto.

Battle of Vera Cruz Is Fiercely Raging

Special to Herald.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—

Word has been received from Commander Hughes that a fierce battle is raging between the Federals and Rebels at Vera Cruz. All Americans are in the neutral zone under protection of United States gunboats.

The truce, which was in force until six o'clock this morning, was strictly observed, but when six o'clock came hostilities opened and the battle is now at its height.

The Hill Wild West Show Comes Back for Winter

Mr. H. A. Hill, owner of the Hill Wild West shows, closed a successful season at Canal Dover last week and brought his shows back here Tuesday over the Pennsylvania for the winter.

Mr. Hill says he and his shows have never had such good treatment anywhere as he has found in Washington C. H., and claims that it is "like coming back home."

The shows will winter on the John Green farm, recently sold, on the Robinson road. The accommodations and location of this farm are particularly desirable for the shows' winter quarters.

Mr. Hill has added stock to his shows, making them considerably larger than they were.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill will go into winter quarters with their show.

Purse Secured From Finder

Detective Kennedy was in this city Wednesday to file an affidavit against Harry Carroll, of West Carrollton, O., charging larceny, but discovered that owing to a new turn of affairs that this could hardly be done.

Carroll is the man who found a purse belonging to Mrs. Almira Turner, of Blanchester, some three weeks ago. He picked the purse up in the B. & O. station in this city, and Mrs. Turner later notified the officials here that she had lost it.

Carroll was notified that the purse belonged to Mrs. Carroll, but kept it under the pretext that no one had identified it. The local authorities wrote him that if the purse, which contained nearly $50, was not returned at once, that arrest would follow.

It was learned Wednesday that Sanford Brown, of Blanchester, had made the trip to West Carrollton and forced the man to give up the purse to be returned to Mrs. Turner.

Had the purse not been returned, Carroll would have been in the toils of the law by this time.

Evidence All In Arguments Made

The case of Ohio against James Strattenburger has been attracting no little interest in Common Pleas court.

Wednesday afternoon the evidence was all in and each side was given

one hour and fifteen minutes for argument, and the case was expected to go to the jury about four o'clock.

Ollie Downard again gave testimony that Strattenburger was along and helped turn the robbery, but stated that Tom Wackman broke into the store and handed out the articles to Downard and Strattenburger. Others testified that Strattenburger was with Downard and Wackman.

On the other hand Strattenburger's folks testify that he was in bed on the night of the robbery.

Horse Frightens At Street Roller

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Frank Flee, Jr., and Mrs. Allen and two children figured in a very exciting runaway mishap near Grace church on Market street when their horse frightened at the street roller and commenced kicking and running.

The rig was overturned and the occupants were very badly shaken up, but not seriously injured. Messrs. W. H. Hetteshelmer and Chas. Mark, who were nearby, caught the horse and rendered other assistance.

SUN at Large

John Williams, the man who shot Henry Valentine, of Bloomingburg, last week, is still at large, and so far no trace has been found of him.

Valentine is still recovering and will soon be all right. The outcome of the shooting is being watched with considerable interest in Bloomingburg, and very little sympathy is expressed for Valentine.

South High Comes Next

Washington and South High will play on the local gridiron Saturday afternoon, and another hard game is predicted, with Washington probably winners.

The Columbus bunch is made up of large fellows who have the reputation of doing some fast playing, but the local team entertains the belief that though Columbus is strong, she is not as strong as Springfield, and that the result will be in Washington's favor.

NEEDED THAT OTHER ROOT

Patients of Dentists Will Appreciate Story of "Nerve" That Comes From Kansas City.

In Kansas City there dwells a man whose boast is that he has "the nerve," and at least one dental surgeon will support him in his claim.

The man with "the nerve" suffered from the pangs of an aching molar and at last sought out his friend the dentist and announced that the tooth must come out. The man with the forceps made a hasty examination and suggested that a filling would relieve the agony, but to no avail.

"That tooth must be pulled," said the "nerve man," "but I want to warn you right now, Doc, that you won't get it the first yank. I have had seven teeth drawn and no dentist lives who can pull one of my teeth the first trial."

The dentist prides himself with the numerous compliments paid him for dexterity in extraction and "the nerve" man's words were a challenge. "I'll get that tooth the very first time I pull it."

"Bet you the drinks you don't," was the patient's retort.

"Done," said the doctor.

The professional man motioned his patron to the operating chair and selected the proper forceps. The cold steel clamped firmly on the tooth, and with a slightly rocking motion the dentist began to pull. The tooth held firm and it looked as if the dentist's reputation as an extractor must suffer. At last, just as little beads of sweat were forming on the operator's brow, he smiled and in another second the three-pronged cause of the trouble lay on the swinging bracket by the dental chair.

No word or sign had been given by the sufferer, who then raised from the chair, grasped the removed tooth in his fingers and gazed at its three roots in contemplation.

There was a tone of real sadness in his voice as he regretfully said:

"If that thing had only had another root, I'd have won the drinks."—Kansas City Journal.

WAS TAKING NO CHANCES

Casey Unwilling to Take the Word of His Rival When It Would End Hostilities.

It had come to blows at last. After many threats and sundry fist-shakings, not to mention odd brick-ends which were thrown, Casey and Riley determined to "have it out," so they adjourned to a neighboring field, followed by an enthusiastic, admiring crowd.

Before they commenced their display it was agreed mutually that whoever wanted to quit should say "Enough," and with that they started.

After a few minutes Casey got Riley down, and was hammering him unmercifully, when Riley shrieked out several times, "Enough!"

As Casey paid no attention, but kept on administering punishment, a bystander said, "Why don't you let him get up? Don't you hear him say that he's got enough?"

"I do," said Casey, "but he's such a liar you can't believe him."—London Tit-Bits.
